Your Outsourced Business Development Team

Our deep strategy expertise allows us to drive your business forward. X40 was born out of frustration with the marketing agencies that came before.

Lackluster results focus on useless KPIs, poor communication, unqualified staff, and everything in between.

Our goal is to set a new standard for what effective marketing means. We define great KPIs as leads, not likes. And great results based on the number of meetings held, not how many eBooks downloads were generated.

X40 specializes in building lead pipelines that generate significant ROI.

Your business survival and success depend on having well-paying customers that buy from you consistently. But most business owners don't have any formal sales or marketing training.

While you have mastered your craft and are amazing at what you do, attracting clients and getting paid well can be a whole different skill-set you need to master but aren't prepared for.

After helping many established businesses and Tech Startups...We have perfected an approach that allows service-based businesses and even freelancers to land higher-paying clients

How Do We Do It!

Using highly-targeted email outreach, we book meetings with these ideal clients and pass them on to your sales team.

- We create lead lists based on the criteria we agree upon (revenue size, geographic location, employee size, vertical, etc)
- Extensive research is done by a team of marketing experts for each company/contact
- 300-400 customized emails sent to ideal customers each week
- Monthly meetings to discuss campaign progress, and make necessary adjustments

In Our Client's Words

Email marketing sure sounds easy but there is a lot we put into our campaigns to make them successful.

Whilst others do everything for everyone, we decided from the beginning to specialize in IT B2B sales.

PABLO VELÁSQUEZ

ATLANTICSOFT

We found X40marketing by pure coincidence while we were doing a linked in sales outbound process, long story short we are no longer using another company and X40marketing is in charge of helping us find new clients, and they have done it with great success.

Thank you X40marketing for all the effort, and we look forward to keep growing together.

SHARKHELPERS

We are a small company trying to sell B2B services to US clients. After several attempts to establish an effective sales funnel, we met Asil and X40 Marketing. After five months of working together, we have found a sustainable way to meet highly relevant leads for our business, and we even have close a couple of deals. Highly Recommended Service!

Michael Weihl

Gulfstream Mergers

We are an international M&A firm, and we use several different business development channels to engage new clients. After a few months working with X40, we were so pleased with the customized servicing, responsiveness to our needs, and results that we decided to expand their services. None of our other outsourced channels were getting us the frequency or the quality of appointment that we were getting from X40, it was like having our own in-house business development team. Highly recommended for your marketing needs.
